BANGOR.

FRIDAY, JUNE 22, 1838.

The Whig Room

Is open at all times, Sundays excepted, where our Whig friends, in town and country, are respectfully invited to call. The Room will be daily supplied with papers from abroad.

LOCO-FOCO CONVENTION.

The Loco Focos held their Convention to nominate a candidate for Governor, at Augusta on Wednesday last. There were, as we learn, three hundred and forty delegates present, but from some reason best known to themselves, thirteen of that number it seems did not vote, as three hundred and twenty-eight votes only were cast, of which Hon. John Fairfield, had three hundred and eleven, and Hon. Rufus McIntire had seventeen. Gen. Chandler, of Augusta, presided, assisted by two Vice Presidents, whose names we did not learn. One of their delegates reports that "there is an excellent state of feeling in the party" a better state, no doubt, than will be exhibited AFTER ELECTION. We will merely state at this time that the campaign is now fairly open, and if the Locos don't get essentially used up, then "there's no snakes in Virginia".

The New York Star quotes several paragraphs from our paper, in relation to the Aroostook lands, with the heading "The Maine Boundary. New subject of ferment," and says that the paragraphs quoted "may explain the mission of Gen. Wool to the Maine frontier." The Star is egregiously mistaken. The above lands are NOT a part of the disputed territory, but of the settling lands belonging to our State, whither flocks of the yeomanry are emigrating to establish a regular Genessee country. The intimation that these movements "may explain the mission of Gen. Wool" is entirely without foundation, that mission having no more connexion with the matter than a mission to the North Pole. The Star will do an act of justice by correcting the error.

ACCIDENT. As the Caravan of Messrs. June, Angevine, Titus & Co. was passing through town to their place of exhibition, a Mr. Symonds, one of the drivers of the teams belonging to them, was violently thrown from his seat, the horses having taken a sudden start, occasioned by the reins breaking, or from having slipped from the hands of Mr. S. We understand that the cage on which he was seated was overturned, and that the corner of it struck his back, breaking, as it is supposed, the spine. His life is despaired of. Why was he carried to the Almshouse? His friends and relatives, we understand live in N. Hampshire.

The Portland Standard says, in prescribing rules for the election of their candidate,

"Let error be met with truth the fact and "raving of the [illegible] demagogue with sound "and rational argument having the support of "our candidates on principles, which will bear "investigation and work conviction in every "candid mind let us appeal to the understanding and scorn a triumph that does not spring "from the convictions of the public mind."

[Mr. Standard, that is just what we have been doing for years, and the heart and understanding of the people have been effectually reached. When you go on the principle you have laid down above, you will elect your candidate and not before.]

The Locofocos are attempting to deceive the honest, hard-working settlers on our State lands, by telling them that it is the determination of the Whigs to turn all, who have not paid up, from their lands! This "refuge of lies" is the last resort of these rabid, desperate politicians. It's a gone case with them.

NEW BANK IN NEW YORK.

On the 25th ult. the mechanics of New York city met and consulted on the subject of establishing a Bank. The result is the following p[illegible]tion for a bank.

1. To establish a bank in this city under the General Bank Law.
2. To be designated as the Mechanics' Banking Association.
3. The capital to commence with the sum of one million dollars, or such other sum as may be subscribed for previous to filing the articles of association, with power to increase to five millions of dollars.
4. To be divided into shares of $25 each.
5. To be under the charge and direction of 21 trustees or directors, of whom 12 at least shall be persons actually engaged in mechanical pursuits or who had heretofore been so engaged.
6. The directors or trustees to be selected by the shareholders, each share to have one vote to be elected for three years, and divided into three classes of seven each, so that seven shall be annually chosen.
7. The capital [illegible] in the stock of the United States, and of this State and the other States of the Union, or secured to be paid by mortgages on unincumbered real estate.
8. No share holder in this association shall be liable [illegible] for any contract [illegible] of the said association.
9. [illegible] to be allowed on the books of the company [illegible] paid [illegible] sum paid, which [illegible] assignable by endorsement.

GETTING THEIR EYES OPEN. The old Bangor Post [illegible] "We are inclined to think well of the law offering the settling lands at a cheap rate on conditions, and a bounty to companies." Prodigious! And yet with all their love for the "dear people," they never would consent to do them a service by placing such valuable lands within their reach. It shows the complete insanity of their professions, which, we always contended, was all "humbug."

The Democrat, alias the Old Bangor Post, virtually admits in yesterday's paper, that the Locos "IN SECRET session" agreed to "SELL OUT" the disputed territory "for bogs in Michigan." We did not know but that it would reiterate the old Loco Foco argument, that "it's all a FEDERAL lie!"

[From the Charleston Mercury.]

Extract of a letter to the Editor, dated

"GAREY'S FERRY, May 23, 1838.

"Two days ago, Capt Thigpin, of a company of volunteers, now mustering here, gave notice to Col. Twiggs that a party of Indians had been at John's Ferry on New River, about 40 miles north of this place.

With his usual activity, our gallant commander, Col. Twiggs, ordered Capt. Bullock, with E. company, 2d Dragoons the only company then at Garey's Ferry, to proceed at once with the sixty men of Capt. Thigpin's, to Fort Halleo[?], there to be reinforced by as many men as could be spared, and pursue the Indians until they came up with them.

These Indians are thought to be runaway Creeks, and to have been camping about New River, and its vicinity for some time. Their number has not been ascertained, but twenty-five fires have been seen."

An express from Micanopy arrived yesterday, states that Capt. Tomkins, at that post, expected to have a fight with Tigertail on the 30th. Tigertail was near him with plenty of women and men, and full of fight. The Tallahassees were with him. The despatch says that 2 companies of Dragoons had been sent out to fight him.

[From the Franklin Review.]

A DEFAULTER GONE OVER-BOARD. James W. Stephenson, the loco-foco candidate for Governor of Illinois, has been forced to retire from the field. He was a government defaulter to the amount of something like $60,000, yet the Van Buren party nominated him, and endeavored to sustain him, until public indignation became so strong against its course, that they were compelled to abandon him to his fate. He published a long explanation of his official affairs, but it is was no go; and many even of his own democratic papers were compelled to declare against it. Thereupon he declined as follows:

"Mr. Editor My late expose of the situation of my affairs with Government, I had supposed would be satisfactory to the democratic press in every part of the state. I have been disappointed; hence, you will be pleased in your paper of to day, to note that I have declined running for the office of Governor at the next August election.

Respectfully, your friend.

JAMES W. STEPHENSON.

SPIRIT OF '38.

This Spirit, goblin or bottle imp was seen in our streets for the first time yesterday. The words "Spirit of 38" were branded on its forehead and its whole appearance was disgusting and repulsive. Notwithstanding this the sympathies of the public were somewhat excited as the bantling seemed too feeble to go alone and no one appeared to claim the honor of paternity. But although there was no name on its clothes by which the place of its residence could be precisely ascertained, it was evident from the cut and pattern of its apparel that it belonged to the Loco Focos. Its coat or wrapper was composed of innumerable pieces differing so much both in colour and texture, that it must have owed its rise to the contributions of the party. Some pieces were so rich and rare that they must have been cut from the cast off garments of the Custom House. Other portions were so faded and threadbare that they reminded you of those who cry "rotation," and congregate at the Standard office. The collar of this coat was absolutely monstrous. This together with the body of the coat was covered with words, among which we perceived the following viz "Down with the Banks," "Biddle," "Federalism &c;" on the phylacteries might be seen in quality binding "Benton," yellow boys, and glory. To cap the climax some mischeivous boys had covered the skirts with innumerable humbugs which stuck like burs. Just over the diaphragm the imp had an inscription stating its object to be "the dissemination of truth." To confirm this there was under it the following viz:

"There never was a more false and scandalous accusation than that brought against the democratic party, of being levellers and agrarians opposed to all Banks, and in favor of an exclusive specie currency."

Again on another part of the body there appeared in large characters "a limited Executive." To this the imp ever and anon pointed his finger, and then shouted "Hurra for Jackson." We hope its unnatural guardians will come forward and claim it or it must be sent to the almshouse. [Portland Courier.]

"Be'st thou a spirit of health, * * *
"Thou com'st in such a questionable shape
"That I will speak to thee,
"I'll call thee" LOCO FOCO.

The Spirit of '38 made its appearance on Saturday night. Its contents appear to be nearly the same as the Argus, but we cannot say much of it, as we carried it with other papers to our house, where the children got hold of it, supposing no doubt from its great black block-head, and the pictures in it, that it was a show bill. We have not been able to find it since.

The Spirit has an uncommonly dark aspect, as if it had just emerged from Pandemonium, begrimmed and black with the murky vapors of the regions below, and casting a shade of gloom in its dismal track.

"Doomed for a while to walk the earth,"

The pictures which adorn it are two coarse figures in the style of the Crockett Almanac, one said to represent a federalist, well fed and portly; the other, a conservative, lean, lank, ragged, and rascally looking, who is deserting the loco focos and becoming a whig. This picture we suppose is designed to intimidate and prevent defection from the loco ranks. The whole looks like an abortive effort to do something which should have a powerful effect.

But although this figure was designed as above represented, yet we think the majority of people [illegible]

The way the Whigs [illegible] going ahead in Penobscot is a "caution" to Loco focoism.

MISS MISSOURI DEAD!

Particulars of her Death, and the Coroner's Inquest. It is well known to the public that this amiable and accomplished young lady, whose recent successful debut at the National created an extraordinary sensation among the theatre-going people, has, for some days past, been residing at the house of Thomas S. Hamblin, by the advice, and under the direction of her chosen and legally appointed guardian, John M. Bloodgood, Esq.

The circumstances which led to the adoption of this young, beautiful, and talented creature by Mr. Bloodgood, are as extraordinary as they are painful. She, poor girl innocent and virtuous as she has always been, was, unfortunately, the offspring of a vile and polluted woman.

A sister to the beautiful Josephine Clifton, whose fame as an actress is universal, she, when yet a child, imbibed a strong passion for the stage; and well fitted by education and genius for assuming the histronic profession, she became the pupil of Mr. Hamblin, under whose tuition her sister became so proficient and successful an artist.

Her studies being finished, she, though but little over sixteen years of age, made a first and most successful appearance on the stage as Alice, in the new drama of Ernest Maltravers, written by Louisa Medina, now the wife of Mr. Hamblin. The popularity and prospect of gain which her extraordinary success occasioned, moved the mercenary disposition of her debased relatives, and at once excited a desire to rob Mr. Hamblin of the benefits which he legitimately expected to derive from the early career of his fortunate and fascinating pupil.

Unable, either by threats or persuasions, to induce the "young candidate" to act dishonorably with her tutor, and deprive him of the advantages which, agreeably to a treaty made with her, her mother, in conjunction with her paramours and friends, sought every opportunity to harass and annoy the poor girl, and at length rendered her stay at home intolerable, and the selection of another abode imperatively necessary.

At first, she made choice of a respectable boarding house in Houston street; but here she was so haunted by her cruel and inhuman persecutors, that her then chosen guardian, Mr. Bloodgood, consigned her to the care of Mr. Hamblin and his lady, where, until her dissolution yesterday, she remained, having every attention that could possibly conduce to her comfort and render her happy under the circumstances which surrounded her.

But, unfortunately, the meddlers and busy-bodies in her mother's family, obtained the vile services of some vagabond scribblers to harass her mind, and disseminate, among kindred spirits, stories well calculated to excite a mind naturally sensitive, and feelings unusually keen. These filthy outpourings of still more filthy and villainous imagination, found their way to poor Missouri until she finally became the victim of the base fabrications, and yesterday, at half past two o'clock, expired almost a maniac.

Subjoined, is a detail of the proceedings before the coroner's inquest, which convened at the urgent solicitation of Mr. Hamblin, against whom a great excitement existed, in consequence of the fabulous reports which had been circulated as to the cause of the unhappy girl's death. The proceedings in the investigation will show that every aspersion which has been uttered against either Mr. Bloodgood or Mr. Hamblin, in connexion with this unfortunate business, is utterly without foundation.

Shortly after the dissolution of poor Louisa was made known, her brother, Nelson H. Miller, to whose improper interference in her affairs her premature dissolution is without doubt, mainly attributable, entered Hamblin's house, and in the presence of several gentlemen who were there, threatened that he should die within twenty-four hours. He left the house, and shortly after returned with a loaded pistol, which was wrested from him by the officers in attendance and he was kept in custody until the termination of the inquest, when he was committed to prison, where he now remains.

In compliance with the request of Mr. Hamblin, the Coroner, Ira B. Wheeler, Esq. summoned a jury, and made a most full, thorough, and searching investigation into the causes of the death of this young lady.

The following facts came out in evidence:

Miss Missouri's astonishing success alarmed her sister, Josephine Clifton, and she wrote to request that Miss M. might be taken from the stage for a short time or forever. The wretched old mother determined to do this; Miss Missouri remonstrated, and the mother, (as sworn to in the evidence) said she would make Miss Missouri undergo "the tortures of the damned," if she refused to comply.

From this time, according to Miss Missouri's statements before death to witnesses under a solemn oath, the treatment of the depraved and desperate old woman toward her was of a most violent character. She threatened to shut her up in a convent, or to send her somewhere into seclusion. She locked up all her clothes forbade her real friends to see her; placed nothing but negroes from her own brothel around her; and in short, virtually consigned her to a temporary confinement in house No. 34 Harrison street.

Miss Missouri's servant, then, by her own direction, went to one of the city, and told her story, with a view to have her case brought before the public. That gentleman properly and promptly laid the matter before the recorder, Robert L. Morris, Esq. He immediately issued a writ of habeas corpus, and sent a letter to justice Bloodgood, directing him to take the necessary steps to bring Miss Missouri before him next morning.

Justice Bloodgood promptly complied with this, and saw Miss Missouri that night. Next morning the young lady went voluntarily before the Recorder, at his office in the City Hall, and begged that his honor would choose a legal guardian for her.

Mr. Charles O'Conner was requested to act as her legal adviser, which he did. Mr. Bloodgood was sent for at her request, he came, and after much solicitation, he consented to become her guardian. The letters of guardianship were legally drawn out, and signed before the surrogate.

Mr. Bloodgood then placed her at the large and respectable boarding house of Mr. Warner, corner of Crosby and Houston streets. Hither her mother and a half negro, and two or three other wretches, pursued the lovely but unfortunate young lady, and threatened violence. They said she should die by their hands rather than act again [illegible]

Mr. Warner, alarmed for the quiet of his house, told Miss Missouri [illegible] that she could not [illegible] Driven to despair, Miss [illegible] Hamblin having been exceedingly kind to her [illegible] Dr. Pennell [illegible] sent for, together with Dr. Doane, and Dr. Francis. Under their care she soon became convalescent; but [illegible] that her mother might [illegible]

The wretches [illegible] however, and [illegible] the half negro, pursued her with a virulence that was truly appalling. They concocted a virulent and venomous article respecting the poor persecuted girl, and published in a folio sheet called the "Polyanthos." This article was kept from her sight for a long time; at last she saw it, and before she had read it half through went into violent hysterics! and fell on the floor lifeless!!

She never recovered from that hour. According to the testimony of the witnesses, she sunk from that time, and continued declining till she died!

The doctors all agreed that she died solely from inflammation of the brain, produced by great mental excitement.

The jury, during the examination, could scarcely restrain their indignation at the brutal conduct of Mrs. Miller and her myrmidons; and after deliberating a few minutes gave as their unanimous verdict the following, viz:

"That the deceased, Miss Missouri, came to her death by inflammation of the brain, caused by great mental excitement, induced jointly by the violent conduct of her mother and the publication of an abusive article in the Polyanthos!"

Thus has God's judgment visited the wretched woman for her iniquitous course of life for many years, and prevented her from prostituting her own child by taking the sweet girl to a better and brighter world.

SENTENCE OF KNEELAND. Abner Kneeland presented himself at the bar of the Supreme Court yesterday, to receive his sentence for blasphemy. He was attended by his wife and family, and a number of female friends. The Bench was full, and, at the direction of Chief Justice Shaw, Mr. Wilde, the Clerk, read the sentence, which was sixty day's imprisonment in the Common Jail. Mr. Kneeland made no remarks on the sentence, and was immediately removed to prison.

The "notorious Bill Johnson," as he is called, who burned the Sir Robert Peel steamboat, and has since been cruising among the "thousand islands" in Lake Ontario and the St Lawrence, has issued a proclamation, in which he proclaims himself an officer in the Patriot service, and says the Robert Peel was not within the limits of the U. S. when destroyed by him.

MR PRENTISS' RESOLUTIONS.

The following are the Resolutions of Mr. Prentiss of Mississippi, alluded to in the letter of our Washington correspondent:

1. Resolved, That the power of designating the time, place and manner of elections for Representatives is expressly given by the Federal Constitution, to the Legislature of the States respectively, subject to no supervision or control, except by law of Congress only, and that, in the exercise of this power, the State Legislature may constitutionally fix the time of the election subsequent to the expiration of the Congress preceding that for which such election is to be holden.

2. Resolved, That neither the Federal or State Executive can constitutionally anticipate, supercede, or change the times of elections as fixed by the State Legislature.

3. Resolved, That this House has not the constitutional power, either legislative or judicial, by its own actions alone, to annul, suspend, or impede, the operation of an act of a State Legislature, fixing the time, place, and manner of election for Representatives.

4. Resolved, That no election or action of this House, can deprive the people of any state, of their constitutional rights of electing representatives in Congress at the time designated for that purpose by the Legislature of such State; that the claim of such right on the part of this House would be a dangerous encroachment on the rights of the States, and its exercise a direct and palpable violation of the Constitution.

5. Resolved, That the constitutional jurisdiction of this House over the subject of representation is a limited one, embracing the question of election, qualification, and return only; and in judging of election, this house is bound to judge in accordance with the act of the State Legislature regulating the time, place, and manner thereof.

6. Resolved, That in accordance with a constitutional act of the Legislature of the State of Mississippi, prescribing the time, place and manner of election for Representatives to Congress, and in compliance with all the provisions of said act, an election was holden in November last for two Representatives from said State to the twenty-fifth Congress, at which election S. S. Prentiss and Thos. J. Word were duly elected, possessed the constitutional qualifications, and were duly and legally returned.

7. Resolved, That the resolution of this House adopted on the 5th day of February last, denying to said Prentiss and Word seats in this House as members thereof, was a dangerous attack upon the elective franchise, in derogation of the rights of the State of Mississippi, in violation of the Constitution of the United States, and a mischievous example to future times.

Resolved, therefore, That said resolution be, and the same is hereby rescinded.
